MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1919.

When Woodrow Wilson gets warmed up he can say a few things that burn.

What a sweet time of it correspondents of the anti-Wilson newspapers who are accompanying the president on his speaking tour are having!

A homeless man brought to a charity ward in Chicago had $6,000 sewed up in his ragged clothes. He may have been saving to buy a

Andrew Carnegie never said that to die rich was to die disgraced, his secretary points out. This removes one of the few compensations of poverty.

German leaders are warmly commending Senator Lodge's fight against the treaty of peace. Hope the Massachusetts statesman does not permit this praise to turn his head.

"You can't afford," said the president, "to he unfriendly to everybody unless you can afford to have everybody unfriendly to you." Let the enemies of the League of Nations put that in their pipes and smoke it.

Japanese fashions have remained practically unchanged for the last 2,500 years. If American styles manifested even a reasonable degree of stability for one-thousandth part of that period the problem of clothing the family would be greatly simplified.

Senators Sherman and Borah call the president an usurper. After the antics that the upper house of congress has been putting on this summer the people will be thankful that there is someone in a position of authority who is not afraid to take the bull by the Representative Schall of Minnesota opposed all honors to General Pershing on the ground that he had built up a personal advertising "misinformation, hypocrisy and pretense." There always is somebody in congress to see the other side of every question, and it may be a good thing for the country, at that, though the popular verdict at the present moment would consign Mr. Schall to the squirrels.

Wood or Medicated Alcohol.

Its harmful effect is quickly felt.

Wood alcohol is distilled chiefly from wood. It has a number of commercial uses in which it takes the place of grain alcohol, and mixed with the latter in the proportion of one part

Formerly wood alcohol was a dark, illsmelling liquid. Later refining processes were introduced and as now manufactured it looks and tastes like grain alcohol.

Pharmacists are permitted to medicate grain alcohol and sell it in small quantities for non-beverage purposes labeled "poison." Some people, ignorant of the danger they were running, have been disregarding the label and drinking the stuff. A few instances have been discovered in which wood or denatured alcohol has been deliberately sold for beverage purposes.

To be on the safe side it is well to steer clear of all alcoholic combinations, especially when there is any doubt as to what ingregients they contain.

But with facts in hand, bad effect. Why is it that one girl in the evening and the patient is growing and something should be done to take better care of it.

The matter is comparatively simple. Travel through the city goes but three ways, to Moline, Davenport, or south through Milan. A few conspicuous street signs bearing concise directions and arrows to point the way would be sufficient. Experience of the automobilist city would want to get up before the farmer who has traveled strange roads will suggest what they should contain and where they should be placed.

Let us mark our eastern boundary so that he who runs may read.

Pleasing Germany.

The boldness with which certain Republican senators and representatives are engaged in "pleasing Germany," as Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer has characterized it, is astounding official Washington. In several instances the new-found friends of the Hun never before raised their voices in his defense; while in other cases his American supporters were pronounced pro-German before the United dent Wilson's veto. States entered the war, practically silent during American participation and now rampant in doing everything that will discredit this country and exalt the conquered enemy.

Senator Knox's speech in the senate against the treaty of peace and the League of Nations astonished Washington, not because it demanded the death of the league, but that the Pennsylvanian spoke so bitterly of the "hard and cruel peace" that had been forced on Germany. This coming from one of the leading senators of a party that had attempted to make political capital by assuring the public machine abroad and that his fame was due to that President Wilson and the Democrats generally intended letting Germany go without punishment, seemed strange to those following national affairs closely.

The activities of the German sympathizers in the United States senate have been made plain by the futile attempt to prevent the confirmation of Attorney General Palmer. Senafirmation of Attorney General Pathler. Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey was named

Attorney General Palmer pointed out in president of a New York insurance company which was the only one to attempt to block the complete liquidation of German insurance was the only member of congress to appear before the senate committee in 1917 to influence its conduct in framing the trading with the enemy act, and that he requested the committee to hear a witness who urged that the enemy insurance companies in the United States be not interfered with.
